Recycling is important because everyone is polluting the earth somehow and we need to recycle so it stops.

Reduce is to make a smaller amount and Reuse is to use something again and recycle is to turn garbage into new stuff. Reduce means to make a smaller amount of something big. Reusing is using things like plastic bottles over again. Recycling is to make something new with garbage.

If I could change anything about the earth it would be to have people stop polluting the oceans and the skys. They can do this by not using boats and ships to carry garbage and use land travel so if the ship sinks the garbage will get spilled in the oceans. I could re-imagine the earth as people recycle more and stop throwing garbage in the ocean or out of their cars. They could do this by having built-in trash cans under the seats so whenever someone needs to use it they can pull it out and throw away their trash.
