

Earth Day Every Day

We all know Earth Day is important but I think Earth Day should be more than just a day. We should celebrate every day! We could celebrate by using less water, recycling, and not wasting things!

One way to celebrate Earth Day is by using less water. People could use less water when washing their hands. Also when you shower. When you shower you use a lot of water so you could take shorter showers.

Another way to celebrate Earth Day is by recycling! People could recycle when you are about to throw it away and have a recycling bin, you should put it in the recycle bin. You can also throw cigarettes in the dirt, making good fertilizer.

Lastly, people can waste less things. When you waste things like food, you could have wasted money, coming from a tree. Don't just throw away something that's broken because it could possibly be fixed.

In conclusion, these are things that you should do not only on earth day but every day!
