

What I am Thankful For

I am thankful for a life and a family. I love my family, and I am thankful of them. They help me learn and help me improve. They always support me, and tell me if what I am doing is wrong or right. They spend so much money on me just so I can learn more and have more opportunities in life, and because of them, I could attend Christa McAuliffe, my dream middle school ever since I even knew about it.

I have a happy life, able to have most of the most modern things like electronics. I'm also thankful for school. Without school, there will be nothing to learn, and probably no friends in life. To think about it, most of my friends are from school. My family, friends, and teachers help me learn and help me solve problems, like my math partner, Oscur. He may be annoying at times, but we do check homework well.

I know many people who don't have electronics. I am thankful that I do have electronics. Without them, I would be bored out of my life. Most of the games that I play are on electronic. Without electronics, I would just play simple games like tag, but I would soon be bored of that, unless there are new players.

I am also thankful for my friends. I have my friends, and then the best of my friends. I have literally all of them in my contacts, so I can just call them whenever I feel like it or want to, and they could do the same. I miss them, since we had to move on and attend middle school. Some of my best friends also went to McAuliffe, like Anderson and Evan. Evan used to be just a friend, but now, he is a best friend.

These are what I am thankful for. I am thankful for a life, my family, my electronics, my friends, and my schools. They helped me become more intelligent and helped me prepare for the "real", harsh world that is known.
