

What I am Thankful For
Mark Pankilevich

The Thanksgiving is a holiday that reminds me of very important things to be thankful for like family, education, health. I am grateful for family because they support me in hard times. They are fun to play games with and talk. I also feed my turtle with my sister and we spend time together. Mostly I like eating together with my parents and sister.

I also am thankful to education because it gives you a chance in life. I also appreciate the teachers because they teach us.

different subjects. I am especially grateful to the books in the classroom because I can read them and grow smarter.

Lastly I am appreciateve for health because I can move around without trouble. I also am grateful for that I have good hearing. Also good eyesight. I am very thankful not to be sick. I have many things to be thankful to like family, education, and health are very important to me.
