Giving Thanks

By Rauha Zahid, Class 4-317, P.S. 238

Thanksgiving reminds me of what god gave me. I thank him for giving me a good family. I really love my family because they do stuff for me. I know it is sad but, I have a problem. I think that is why my family does stuff and never tells me or lets me watch scary stuff and I am not thankful for that because it hurts me a lot.

I am also thankful that god gave me friends. I like my friends because they really appreciate me as their friend. They really respect me and I do the same. My friends, and my teacher, and my para really like me and hopefully I can stay with my friends for years to come.

What I really like about my friends and family and my teacher/para is they really love me. I also love them back, and I really appreciate them. I could never imagine me being without everyone I love because I will be really sad about that.

I am mostly thankful for my parents because they also appreciate me as a child. Even though my parents are from another country, they love America so much. However, they also love Pakistan and they took me to Pakistan and loved it when I first saw it. I love being part of two countries and I am very thankful for that.

These are the things I am mostly thankful for. I love my family, my friends, and my countries.
