What am I Thankful for?

There are various aspects of my life for which I'm grateful. I am very lucky to have so many positive people and experiences in my life. Here are some of the aspects of my life and why they are important to me.

One aspect in specific is our Government. I am grateful for this because having a strong agency makes less violence and havoc. It also makes towns and cities much safer.

In addition, another aspect that I'm grateful for is my family and friends. I am grateful for my family and friends because they help me out when things are going rough, and cheer me up when I'm blue. One of the last aspects of family and friends is having fun and being happy together.

More importantly, another facet that I'm grateful for is the community I live in. One reason for this is because it is safe to walk around town and have a good time with your friends. To continue, the community also has a lot of programs to offer, like after-school clubs and fun camps that keep you active at the local YMCA.

To conclude, these are a few aspects of life that I am personally grateful for. Sometimes you think that you don't have a lot but when you realize what other people have you start to change your mind. So on this year's Thanksgiving try to think about what you are grateful for and why.
