

Thanksgiving is around the corner and it is time to be thankful for what we have. I am thankful for a lot of things that I have.

One of the things I am thankful for is my house. It is a big house and I have a lot of activities to do in the shelter that keeps me safe. Another thing I am thankful for is my family. I have a large family and they are all nice and we always have fun together.

I am going to explain why I am thankful for these things. My house is important for the reason it is a place I feel comfortable. I can always go to my house whenever I am tired or stressed and relax. Family is also important whenever there is a problem anybody can go to their family and they will stop what they're doing and try their hardest to solve that problem. They comfort you and encourage you to explore your imagination and will always support you.

Those are some of the things I am thankful for and why I am.
