As the weather changes, and the months go by,

Thanksgiving comes around,

Oh, what a wonderful time!

Sitting at the dinner table with those you care about most,

Thinking about the many ways God has blessed your soul.

As they go around the table

Displaying all their thanks, it finally reaches you,

Oh, so much to say.

Reflecting on the past year,

And all the chaos that has gone on,

You take a deep breath, ready to let out your joy

Health and happiness is what you reply,

Appreciating it is all you need to be satisfied

And as they continue around the table,

You think to yourself,

Oh, what a marvelous existence.
