

What I'm Thankful For

I am thankful for being able to live close to my family. A lot of my family lives near me. Many poor children in different countries only live with their parents and siblings, while their cousins, aunts, and uncles live in a whole different area. I am thankful for growing up in the type of area I live in. I really like being able to walk through the hills. My uncles have a cabin in Pennsylvania and right behind it is a steep hill. I think it is very fun climbing up it. When you get to the top of it you can see for miles. I am really glad I don't live in a city.

Without these things that I am grateful for I would not know important things that I know now. If I didn't live in the area I live in now, I would make a lot of mistakes. When I was walking with my family at the hill behind the cabin, I fell down a short part of the hill and a stick cut straight up the back part of my left leg. Since then I have been careful about what I do.
