

Casie Yorke 7B

Mrs. Attanasio

I am Thankful

There are many qualities for being thankful. On this Thanksgiving I have many qualities that are needed for being thankful.

On Thanksgiving Day, one should have trust. One needs to have trust so that people can trust each other. People need to trust you so that they can tell you things without you telling anyone else.

On Thanksgiving Day, one should also have kindness; as a result, you are kind to others. If you are kind to others you will be known as a good and kind person. Treat others with kindness like the way you want to be treated.

On Thanksgiving Day, people are loving. People are loving each other that way you can celebrate with the people you love. One should be loving to others that way you can say what you are thankful of them for.

These are qualities I have on Thanksgiving and you should too.