

What Qualities Do You Have That You Are Thankful For?

By Marley Altmann

I am thankful for being encouraging, active, and confident. My encouragement affects people by making them like they can do anything and not to give up. One time, when my friend got bullied at school, I told her to ignore him, and she was better off not talking to him. I gave her a big hug and she thanked me. I am thankful for being active because I can lose weight and being active keeps me busy. I do Tae Kwon Do. I practice a lot when I have a tournament. I am thankful for being confident because when I am scared, I can put myself in my comfort zone. One time, I was stuck on a math problem. I was confident that I knew my stuff and talked myself through the problem. I surprisingly got the answer correct. In conclusion, I am thankful for having these 3 qualities.
