

What qualities do you have that you are thankful for?

I believe I have many qualities, some of which are less useful than others. The qualities that I do have that can make me more approachable to others are the qualities for which I am very thankful. These qualities have allowed me to keep some of my closest friends for about 6 years. So I believe I am very lucky to have such great charms.

A few of my best qualities for which I am thankful are my intelligence and how I am pretty compassionate. My friends also tell me I am very funny. This quality is one of the many I am extremely thankful for because being able to laugh in a tough situation or on a rough day can make someone's day much better. Another quality that I have that I am thankful for is my independence. I dislike relying on others so this quality allows me to do things on my own time.

These qualities shaped me into the person I am today. My qualities help me throughout my days, either making a day better or worse for me. Through the good qualities I have and even the bad qualities I am still very thankful for everything God has provided for me.
