

This Thanksgiving, I have a lot of qualities for which I am grateful. Although I am not perfect, I do think I have many good attributes. I am still growing, learning, and trying to become a better person, but for now I think I have a good number of great qualities.

For one, I always try my best to be kind to others. Even if I am not a big fan of someone, I still always make sure to be as kind to them as possible. Another thing I like about myself is that I am a very compassionate person. I feel and care for others when they are hurting or upset. Yet another quality about myself for which I am thankful is that I am self aware. I can always recognize when I do something wrong, and when I do, I try to fix it and make sure it doesn't happen again. Lastly, I like that I can make people laugh. I love making people happy and my favorite way to do that is through laughter.

Thanksgiving is a time to be thankful. Thankful not only for what we have, but who we are. Everyone has qualities that make them unique and special. We should recognize these qualities and be proud of them, for they're what make us who we are.
