

Thanksgiving Essay

Thanksgiving is about giving back to all those people for which you are thankful. During Thanksgiving, friends and family gather to enjoy an extravagant meal. During Thanksgiving, I thank God for all of the stuff He has given me, such as, an amazing family, many friends, and the gifts and qualities with which He has blessed me.

One of the qualities that God has given me for which I'm thankful is my ability to adapt to new people. I am thankful for this quality because in whatever environment I'm in, I am able to talk and have fun with new people. Another quality for which I am thankful is my humor. In any place I'm in or in a new environment I am able to make everyone laugh and have fun. Another quality about myself that I enjoy is that I am athletic. I enjoy this quality because whenever I go out with my friends and I play a new sport I am able to adapt quickly and get better very fast.

In conclusion, Thanksgiving is about giving back to other people. During Thanksgiving we thank God for all the blessings that he has given us. Some blessing for which I am thankful for is my ability to adapt to new situations and environments. I thank God because without these blessings I would not be who I am today.
