

What Qualities Do You Have That You Are Thankful For?

By Sophia Drozdowski

I am thankful for being loyal, strong, and generous. These qualities are what make me who I am. My friends say that I am loyal because I don't leave their side and I am not rude to them. I love being loyal because it helps me get more friends. Being strong is the second quality I am thankful for. Why I think I am strong is because I can sometimes handle things easily, and I can also protect myself when I need to. I can also help my friends when they need help. Finally, I think I am a generous person. I think I am a generous person because I think I am nice and confident. I love to try and be kind. In conclusion, I am thankful for being a loyal, strong, and generous person.
