

I have many qualities that are important in my life for which I am thankful. In honor of Thanksgiving coming up, it is a time to realize how thankful I am to have things and give back to others.

The first quality for which I am grateful is my humor. I am very funny in my house and at school, but I have to first remember to get all of my work done before I can be funny. I am thankful that I recognize that I have to do my work before being funny. Another quality that I have is that I am kind. I try to be the kindest person every time I am talking to someone whether they are mean to me or they are my best friend. Another quality is to be caring. I will care for someone if they are hurt or they got a good or bad grade on a test. Another quality is that I am very hardworking, whether it is in school or at home. I have to get my work done, then I can go play my video games. Another quality for which I am grateful is that I am very trustworthy. If you tell me a secret, I will not tell anyone. Also, one of my best qualities is that when someone is talking to me one on one, I listen to them as best as I can and I try to do my best to accommodate what they are asking. Also, another quality that I have is to not be shy. If you are shy, you don't make a lot of friends and you are lonely. I think friends are the best thing to have in life. Also, another quality that I have is that I am strong. On a test I have to withstand the pressure in my body and try to do my best.

My family is my reason why I am so grateful for these qualities. They set a very good example for me and I always try to be like them. My parents are both hard working people and I love them very much. They have taught me to be hard working and grateful.
