

Thankfulness

There are many qualities that people have that , Im thankful for my empathy. My empathy helps other people around my environment. If someone is feeling anger , under the weather , jealousy or just having a time with many problems , I will step in and help them , no matter what they need. No matter what , I will promise them and help them , no matter if I have a million things due tomorrow or if a deadly tiger is chasing me down. I promise them that it will be okay and that I'm there for them.

One time my friend really needed help and had a mental breakdown because her teachers gave her homework all due tomorrow. I could tell that she was very stressed and really needed someone to talk to. I helped her and together we got all 14 assignments done by 6:00 pm , and our school at the time didn't dismiss until 3 pm. It took us 3 hours and I also did all of my 14 assignments with her to make her feel motivated , productive , and just so we both can get an understanding. I understood all the ELA and Math stuff but she needed some help with math. 1 week later we got the 14 assignments back and we got a 90% or higher on all of them.
