

There are many qualities that people have that I am thankful for. One quality that I have that I am thankful for is that I have a lot of patience so I don't get mad or bored very fast and. One time my parents couldn't afford to do anything to celebrate my birthday because we didn't have a real home at the time because our previous home got burned down to ashes. And instead of worrying about getting upset because of my birthday I took time to think about my parents situation and I know they wanted to elaborate on my birthday but they simply couldn't afford to do anything for me or my sister. So me and my sister told our parents that they didn't have to worry about celebrating our birthdays and they should just save the money for important things like food and clothing.
