

Thankfulness

One quality that I'm thankful for is being very creative and coming up with ideas. I'm thankful for this quality I have because I think that it is really fun and it makes me proud of myself that I am showing how creative I am to my family, friends and to myself. Another reason why I am thankful is that I'm getting better and better with my drawings and projects, and that shows that I am practicing until I am an expert. I have more examples why. When I am bored I always come up with good ideas. For example there are squishies that you can buy. Meanwhile, I am making homemade squishies with more effort into them and remaking them. Because I think it's more fun just to redo them with paper.
