

My Qualities That I Am Thankful For

I have many different qualities that I am thankful for. They include kindness, loyalty, leadership, curiosity, enthusiasm, openness, confidence, and creativity. I have a lot of other qualities too but these are my best ones. I get all of these amazing qualities from my family. My family members such as my mom, grandma, uncles, aunts, and cousins inspire me everyday to be the best person I can be and they influence these amazing qualities. But I also have to give credit to all of my friends that help me to be an amazing person.

I appreciate all of the people that influence me, especially my mom. My mom inspires me the most because watching my mom work so hard everyday just to take care of me and provide me with a nice home, food, clothes, water, after school activities and so much more. I try to be kind to everyone when I can. For example this morning I saw one of my classmates sitting alone at breakfast so I decided to leave my table that I was sitting at with my friends and went to sit with him. I thought that this would be a kind action and later in life this kindness might be returned to me. I am also kind by befriending people that don't really have friends or their friends are rude to them.

I also try my best to be loyal. I find myself loyal because I don't switch up with my friends just because one of my other friends wants me too. I pride myself in being loyal because the world needs more people who are kind and loyal and don't stop being your friend for laughs or for fun. I am very thankful that my old friends stay loyal and my new ones are also loyal. I am so lucky to have friends like them. Another quality that I pride myself with is leadership. I have always been a good leader and I love doing it. I love leading a group because I find that I am fair and listen to others ideas. I also like being a leader because it helps me get my opinions or ideas across. Being a leader isn't something everyone can do. Some leaders don't listen to others and other leaders just don't care. But I find that I am a great leader and others think so too because I was dance captain for my team last year.

I also hold the quality of being curious. I say this because I'm not afraid to ask questions or try to research things to figure out my question myself. I love being curious because it helps me to learn new things. I also have the quality of enthusiasm. I try to always have a smile on my face. I've learned that being upset and not laughing does nothing for me or anybody else so I think that's the best way to always be happy and laugh. Some people ask me why I always laugh at everything but I don't take that as an insult because I love to laugh and just have fun.

My next quality that I am thankful for is openness. I consider myself open because I like to share my opinion. I like to share stories and I ask for help if I need it. Another quality that goes along with openness is confidence. I love being confident because it makes it easier to perform acting and dance both things that I love so much. Confidence doesn't just let me perform, it is just a great quality to have because it also gives me courage. Confidence and courage are very similar things. Having confidence makes me both proud and happy.

My last quality that I will be writing about is creativity. Creativity is important to me because it gives me ideas. I also express my creativity through dance. I have been dancing since I was two years old and I have always loved it. My creativity could also be expressed through writing and art such as paintings, drawings, singing, and acting. I love being creative because it's such a good way to be myself and share my emotions.

In Conclusion these are my best qualities and things that I love and am thankful for.
