

A quality that I am thankful for is the ability to talk to large crowds of people. If I couldn't speak with tons of people watching or listening to me, I would not be as good as an actor as I am. I've written a haiku to show this:

If I could not speak
In front of large crowds of eyes
Acting would be hard

I would also not have met lots of my friends whom I've met through the process of acting. So, just to wrap things up, there are a lot of direct and indirect things that make me thankful that I'm able to speak in front of large crowds.

James Chavez Carey