

Qualities I am Thankful For

Simone Scarpinato

Here are some qualities that I'm thankful for. These qualities make me who I am. They also help me make friends and be good with kids that are younger than me.

One of the qualities that I am thankful for is that I'm funny. I'm thankful for being funny because it can help me help others to cheer them up when they're sad. It can help me make friends by making them laugh, and when people laugh they will most likely like me. It can help me be good with younger kids by making them laugh, and little kids love to laugh.

Another quality that I'm thankful for is my kindness. I'm thankful for this quality because it can brighten someone's day. I'm kind by helping around the house and helping around school, like the time I cleaned some of the girls bathroom.

As a person, the qualities of being funny and kind make me different from everyone else. I have lot's more qualities but I decided to focus on these two qualities. I'm thankful for these qualities because I believe my friends enjoy me having them. If I didn't have these qualities I don't think some of my friends would be my friends.