Thankful Essay

There are many qualities that make me who I am. Four qualities that I believe define who I am as a person are sportsmanship, bravery, creativity, and being athletic. I am thankful for good sportsmanship because it helps me with my sports like horseback riding and basketball.

I am thankful for my bravery because it helps me with scary situations like riding a horse or a roller coaster that goes upside down, but I have bravery so I can do it.

Another quality that I am thankful for is creativity. I am thankful for creativity because during art class I give my own kick to it. I love my creativity because it is fun to do art and other things.

I also love being athletic because I get to do all the sports I want. I do football, during recess I play basketball on a team, I also play softball with my friends and family, because I am athletic.

All in all I'm thankful for all my qualities because they make me... me.
