What I Am Thankful For

Four qualities that I believe define who I am as a person and I am grateful for are courage, kindness, honesty, and caring.

I am caring because I am strong-hearted for those in need. Caring means you always care about others even if they are poor or in your family. Another reason is that caring for others makes you a better person over time.

I show kindness by being kind to other kids and making new friends. You can be kind in your every-day lives by not bullying other kids. You should always be kind because if you are, people are going to be kind back.

I show honesty by always telling the truth no matter if it is my family or my friends. Honesty means you should always tell the truth even though it might be hard. You should always be truthful to your parents or friends because they would get mad and they wouldn't want to be your friend.

I show courage by being lion-hearted to be able to stick up for myself. Courage means that you should always try to stick up for yourself even though it might be hard. Being courageous is very important because people are bullies and sometimes some people can't stick up for themselves.
