Thankful Essay

I am thankful for curiosity, I like to learn new things and share them with others. Curiosity helps me learn about the world and how many questions I'd like to ask about the world. In math class I asked my teacher when we do division can the dividend be smaller than the divisor? She said no it can't be smaller because then you can't divide, I learned something new and that was really cool!

I am also thankful for kindness, kindness is doing a kind act or a good deed. Kindness is kindhearted and it's something you'll never forget. One time my friend was hurt. I helped them get up and bring them to the nurse. After a few minutes they were ok, they thanked me for helping them and that is something I will never forget.

Another quality I am thankful for is creativity, creativity is using my imagination to make something cool like a dragon or a robot. Creativity is a creative gift, It gives you inspiration to draw or make whatever you want. It's also a gift of skill, the gift of skill helps you make something really cool because you put all your effort into it.

In addition to kindness, curiosity, and creativity, I am thankful for being a good listener, because when the teacher is teaching us a new thing I get to listen because it's fun learning new things. It's important to listen because if you don't listen you may forget about a test or how to do this sort of problem. I also get to listen to my friend's amazing ideas, or where they went over the summer or, what there being for next halloween!

That's why I'm thankful for kindness, curiosity, creativity, and for being a good listener.
