Thankful Essay

Some qualities that I am thankful for are responsibility, kindness, being respectful and creativity. I show that I am very responsible by always doing my work and handing it in on time. I am kind and respectful to others. I am also very creative. These are the qualities that I am thankful for and I am proud of them. They make me who I am.

I am responsible by knowing how to take care of my stuff. I have a very clean room! I also have a younger brother, and I help him a lot too. When he needs help with his homework, I try my best to help out.

Another quality that I have is that I am kind. If someone is hurt, I am always willing to help them. When I do something kind, I help others feel good, and that's something that is really important to me.

A third quality that I possess is that I am respectful. Being kind means you treat people with kindness all the time. If someone is being bullied I would be more than welcome to help them and lend my hand.

I am creative by making a lot of art projects. I love expressing myself through the art that I do. I really enjoy art class and I am very good at it. Being creative allows me to express myself through pictures and depending on my mood, all the different colors.

I picked these qualities because they are the ones that define who I am. I am responsible, kind, respectful and creative.
