

Sadie Demaio
O.L.G.C

11/17/23
Grade 4

My Thankful Essay

Some qualities I am thankful for are creativity. Creativity means you make new things. Creativity is really fun to do when you are bored. Also you can make whatever you want. And create new things like different art or different paintings. And nobody can stop you when you are doing art. Also you can make art out of different materials. Not just colored pencils or crayons or markers. You can make art out of cardboard or glass. There are many things that you can make art with.

Another quality I have is kindness. This quality makes me have a lot of friends and kind people around me. Also this quality makes me very kind. Also this quality makes me who I am. And my friends will want to hang out more with me. And if I am kind to others they will be kind back. Also this quality helps me not think about bad things and focus on the good things that happened.

Another quality that I possess is being smart. This quality helps me understand things and know hard things. This helps me learn things and know things that most people don't know. Also I can help others with things that they are confused with. Like a question. Another trait that I have is I am daring. Daring means you are brave. How I am brave is when my mom has to go somewhere. I stay home alone with my older sister when it is dark. Brave helps me because if someone is too scared to go down somewhere I can go with them to not be scared. Another way I am brave is when I have to stay in my room alone. Staying alone usually scares me because I am in a room alone. But sometimes I have to be brave. One more trait that I have is curiosity. Curiosity means you want to figure things out. Curiosity makes you want to know something even more than you think about it. I have this trait because when I am reading a book I want to flip the page to see what is going to happen next. Also when you see a place on the internet you are probably curious and you want to go there to explore the place and see what is there. I am very thankful for these qualities because they make me who I am and they make me unique.