

THANKFUL

Madi: my role model, someone I can tell anything to without being judged; taught me that no one is perfect.

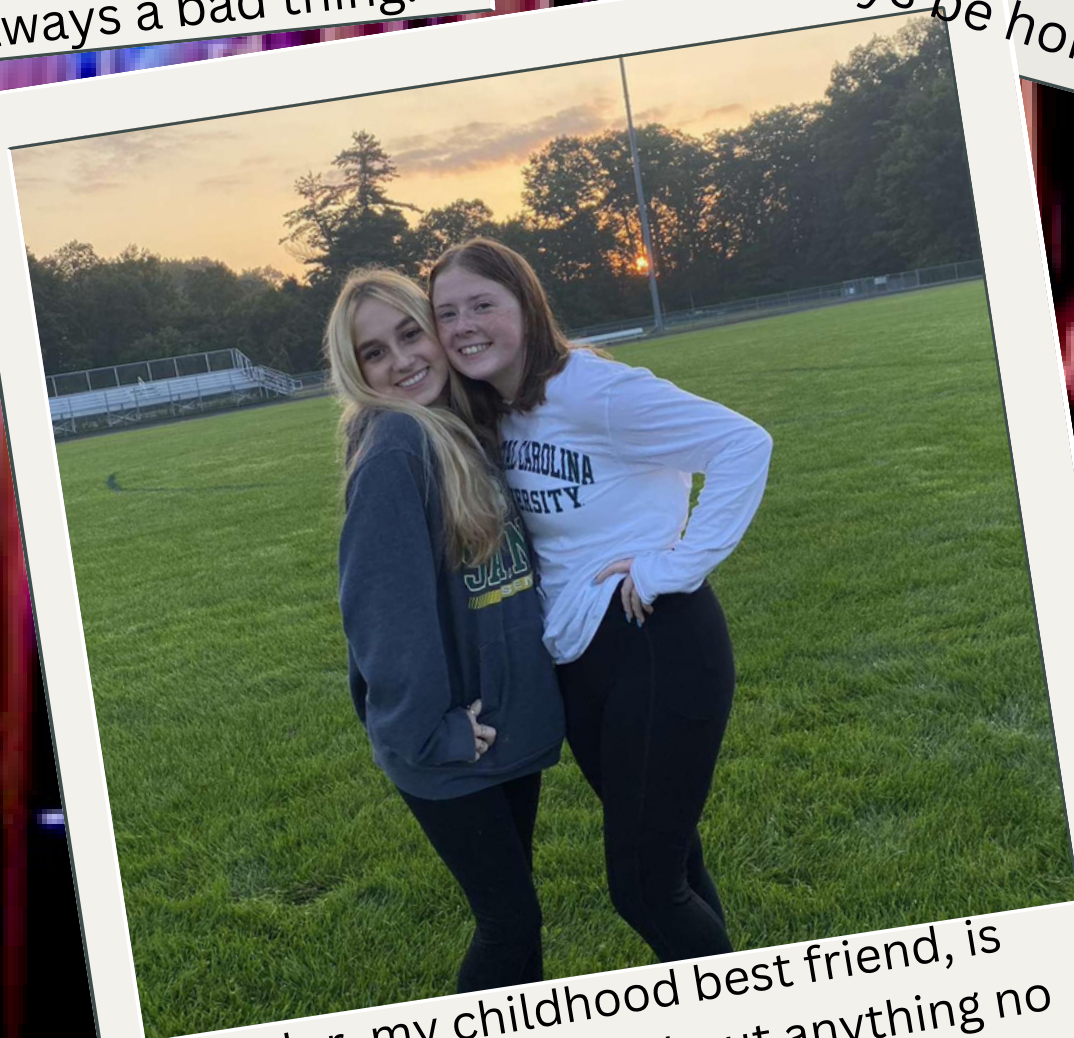

Juliana, my partner in crime, someone I can rant to about anything and she'll agree; she taught me that just because we are growing up it does not mean we can't have fun like little kids.

Natalia, my best friend. Someone who has stuck with me through ups and downs, and has taught me that differences aren't always a bad thing.

Mom, my built-in-best friend, the one person whom is honest with me. She taught me to always be honest and kind.

Taylor, my childhood best friend, is someone I can go to about anything no matter what. She taught me that friendships should be easy.
