I am Thankful

Many people feel that the holidays are a perfect time to tell others how thankful you are. I do love the holidays, but I always try to tell people how thankful I am all the time. I am thankful for my family and friends, and I take every opportunity to tell them and show them.

I am thankful for my family because they love and care for me. My grandmother helps to take care of me. She picks me up from school when my parents are working. I always tell her how much I appreciate and love her. My parents are the best in the world. They make sure I have everything I need and they support every thing that I do. I know sometimes it is not easy or may cost a lot of money, but they find a way to keep me active and learning. I am very thankful for them.

I have the greatest friends. I am lucky to have had some of the best friends for four year, since kindergarten. My friends keep me elated. I am an only child and can get lonely sometimes. I am thankful that I have friends and their families that I get to hang out with.. I am grateful for my teachers that have taught me a lot about friendships and being part of a community.

So, although I love the holidays, I am thankful that I get the chance to tell the people I care most about how thankful I am to have them in my life.
