

One of the traditions of Thanksgiving is to celebrate what we are thankful for. Sometimes we forget to be grateful for what we have. It's important to be grateful because it reminds us of what we have and also reminds us of what we have and also reminds us that there are others who are in need of these things.

There are many things I am grateful for. I am grateful for the education I get from school. I am grateful for the food I get. I am also grateful for my home and family.

The education I get from school will help me get a job. The food I eat gives me nutrition and keeps me healthy. My family loves me and supports me. My house keeps me and my family safe.

There are many people who don't have food, shelter or an education.

Some people live in poverty. That means that they live off less than $1.50 a day! Due to this they cannot afford food or clothing. They have very difficult lives.

It is important to be grateful for what we have. I am grateful for many things. We have to help those who are in need of things like food and shelter. By helping others we can create a better world.
