I am Grateful

There are many people who make my life happy and safe, and I am grateful for those people. A few of those people are my mom, friends and dad.

My mom is the nicest and sweetest person in the world. She always makes sure I'm ok and that my homework is done. Although it may get annoying she always says to me to try harder than my best, which helps me with a lot of things. My mom is my world I don't know what I would do with out her.

Another person I'm grateful for is my dad. My dad is my inspiration, he always is proud of me as long as I tried my best. He asks me how my day was going everyday when he gets home. He helps me with my homework and makes sure I understand it too. My dad is my rock to lean on whenever I need help.

My friends are one of the many people I am also grateful for. They know when I'm sad and they always cheer me up. We always make great memories when we are together. Sometimes we get into trouble but we always look back at it and laugh. They make special occasions like my birthday exciting and happy. They make me laugh until I cry. I couldn't ask for better friends.

These people make everyday of my life amazing. But there are other people that make me happy and I couldn't be more than grateful for them.
