

Falish Gabriel
St. Athanasius

November 10, 2016
Writing

What I'm thankful for...

What I am thankful for is my conscience. Why I am thankful for my conscience is because, my conscience helps me make good choices and lead me away from the bad ones to become a good person. Also my conscience might lead me to do bad choices, but I learn from my mistakes which help me thrive to do better. In the present, people do have conscience but use it the wrong way, which leads them to a whole other situation. However there some good people who know how to use their conscience, make their good choices, and become good people. For the bad people who make bad choices, they can become good people by learning from their mistakes and doing better, so we all can do good in New York, America, and the whole world. Suckly, I am so thankful that everyone has a conscience. My future is for I could become a great person and inspire others to become good too. I bless that I have a