

What I am Thankful For

At this time of year, we all sit at the table and devour our turkey. But we also give time to say what we are thankful for. I am thankful for many things including my family, friends and especially my two lovable grandmothers. These people make my life fun and exciting. I don't know what I would do without them.

My family means so much to me. They always make me laugh and smile. Sometimes they embarrass me but I still love them dearly. My family consists of my mom, dad and my brother. My brother can sometimes be a pain, but otherwise he is an amazing big brother. Without my family my life wouldn't be complete. They just have this spark that makes my day and doesn't make me sad anymore. Like when my dad flushed my dead goldfish down the toilet I was crying and crying, but then my mom cheered me up. My family is the best thing that ever happened to me.

Next, I have my friends. They always make me crack up and laugh till I cry. Without my friends I probably wouldn't smile often. When I have sleepovers with them we usually watch youtube at 2:00 in the morning! They always help me get through things and they are always by my side when I need them. I don't know how I would laugh without my friends.

Lastly, I have my two lovable grandmothers. My grandmother on my mother's side lives in Florida so I don't get to see her often. My brother and I call her Grammie, and she is one darn good one. She is extremely funny and very active for being in her 70's. She plays golf and tennis which I'm not good at and on top of that she always makes me laugh. My grandmother on my father's side always gives me candy and lots of kisses. We call her Baba which is Croatian for grandma. She is so lovable and awesome. I love her soooooo much! She always makes me smile and she is so amazing. I am extremely thankful for these two wonderful people. My two grandmothers are the best and I couldn't ask for anyone better than them.

Those are some things that I am thankful for, and when Thanksgiving comes around I hope I can tell all these wonderful people how much I appreciate having them in my life... "There is so much to be thankful for, if you take the time to look."
