

Truly Thankful

I am thankful for all the wonderful things in this world.
Everything from the ground underneath, the oceans to the sky so bold.

I am extremely, extremely thankful for my mother and my father and the food I receive everyday.

I am thankful and grateful for being blessed with the gift of five senses to enjoy and appreciate the world day by day.

I am thankful for good friends and endless supply of showered love.

I am thankful for my teachers and the education I get in order to exceed above.

Indeed, I am thankful for all the goodness of this world.

I am thankful for fall's beautiful colorful leaves and the oh so beautiful blossoms of spring.

The buzz of playing in the rain and the bed of snow and the click of joy and delight that it brings.

All these splendid things, oh how thankful I am of all these amazing things.

I am indeed, indeed thankful for this wonderful world embedded with all the precious things.
