

Aidan Reed

Thanksgiving is not about the big meal. It is about things you are thankful for. Humans tend to take things for granted. Cellphones, Xbox and tv are not as significant as food, water and shelter. My sisters come home every day and expect to have food ready for them. How rude is that? Thanksgiving essays aren't supposed to just say "I'm thankful for food and water and family". You must express your real feelings. My gratefulness, I have to admit isn't that great, but at least I don't make up meaningless lies. I am thankful for these things but no human shows it. Seals are risking their lives so I can watch the jet game. If you haven't realized, making us right these essays' you should be right one to cause I bet you are just as ungrateful as we are. I don't blame you, I blame no one. Humans use the ten percent of our brain in the worst way. No brain at all we have. This is not an ordinary essay but I am thankful for being one of a kind.