

Thankful For Essa

Since thanksgiving is coming up it is good to take advantage of things you love that not many other people might have. I am thankful for my family, pets and animals, and technology. It is always good to take advantage but not to brag about anything.

First off, in my family I have my brother Spencer, my mom Katie, and my dad Michael. I am lucky to have them in my life. I look up to my brother, Kind of like his shadow. I want to be like him. Mostly grade wise. ( He's on the honor roll) I also want to be like my mom because I like to cook and bake like her.

For my pets and animals, I live with my 2 dogs Boozer (male) and Nacho (female). Nacho is a Chihuahua jack russell terrier breed. Boozer is an Australian Cattle dog (Blue Heeler). I pretty much own Nacho. Both are not that big but still fully grown. I believe Nacho is 7 and Boozer is 5. We also own 3 bearded dragons. The girl is Crunch, The boy is Cona, and the baby is Toby. Crunch and Cona are both about 7-9 inches long. (Including tail) Since Toby is a baby he is only about 2 ½ inches long. (Including tail)

Reminder: Before the next paragraph, I don't mean to brag in any way

I know that a lot of people would say this in a lifetime, but really cannot live without technology. Not only because it helps me but it makes life less boring. My family loves technology. Our family shares the computer, iPad Mini, and all the TV's. My mom owns just a phone. My brother owns a computer, 3 monitors (Looks like computer screens) a phone, a laptop, Xbox one, Xbox 360, and a iPad. My Dad owns a Laptop and a Phone. Finally I own a Wii, Laptop and a phone. (I'm always on the family computer but it's not mine)

I am truly thankful for all the wonderful things i'm provided. I do understand that not many people have the things that i have. But still there are people that have more than me. Let's get together and care, share and be thankful.
