

Tyler Wilson

What I am mostly thankful for is freedom. Also I am really, really thankful for family, friends, and school. What I would do is give the grown-ups that don't know how to read is give them chapter books. I also would give the children that are still poor is give them food to share, books, and clothing. I would give them money, toys, blankets, shelter, math, ELA, and towel's. I would give them candles like cinnamon, apple, pink sands, pumpkins, and gingered caramel apple. I would give them movies like frozen, and the movie Annie. I am thankful for being in this world. I am thankful for having a step-dad. I am thankful for knowing how to do math. I am also thankful for knowing how to read. I am thankful for armed serviced men and women. I am thankful for karate. I am thankful for work, houses, air, sports, and pumpkins to carve. I am thankful for toys, homework, flowers, a little sister, tv, game shows, food, birth, for the planet Earth, sun, moon, writing utensils, paper, and computers. I am thankful for light, dark head, eyes, noses, mouths, ears and hair. I am thankful for having the right to get married and have a family in New York. I am thankful for having the right to go to school. I am thankful for having the right to play the bass, violin, viola, clarinet, flute, French horn, saxophone, piano, trumpet, drums, and the guitar. I am thankful for tramp aliens, Minecraft books, Pokemon, the ABC's, crayons, birthdays, Diary of a Wimpy Kid books, Eragon books, moms, dads, sisters, cousins, earrings, costumes, shoes, teachers that we trust, names and the future.