

Planet Earth

By Romelo Waddell

Imagine holding Planet Earth in the palm of your hand. With no regard for your place of birth or claim to any land. The only thing between us is the truth we understand. If Planet Earth were in the palm of your hand, 50 years from now, what would they say about us here? Did we care for the water and the fragile atmosphere? There are only two kinds of folk and the difference they make. The ones that give and the ones that take. Just like the countless bodies that revolve around the sun. Planet Earth must now come into balance with the one that caused it all to be. Then we'll see his kingdom come, so it should be written, so it shall be sung. Pray for peace and love forevermore.

Romelo is a Junior at West Hempstead High School.

This essay was created in the Adelphi University STEP/LPP program.