

My mom is independent,hardworking.She is the person who has affected my life this year. She matters to me because she is always with me the most and because she always buys me things and gives me food.She shows how life will be when I'm older.

My mom has given me many things such as a phone,clothes,food,etc . Without her i wouldnt be able to get a good education because she would need money to buy me uniforms,sweaters. My mom keeps me from being cold and hungry. She works hard to get paid well to buy me and my brother many things. She's always there for me when I need her. She's the reason I'm here in the world.She always does many things by herself and works independently with things like (cook,clean,sweep,etc).

This matters to me because she is preparing me for how life will be. She teaches me how to sweep,mop,wash myself,put on clothes and more,how to cook and she will teach me discipline as I grow. And if i dont know most of this stuff i wouldn't know how to do this stuff and because this helps me learn my mistakes and do better stuff.

This changed my point of view in life because I would be doing or trying bad stuff and getting hurt and burning and more and also wouldn't know how to put on clothes, feed myself and other stuff and I wouldn't have many of the stuff I have. And I would or could've been a bad person or ended up on the streets and doing stuff like robbing and wouldn't have a roof over my head or be able to sleep peacefully,wake up peacefully.

In conclusion this is why my mom is the person that i would always pick or be with all my life and this is why i love her
