What I Am Grateful For

Thanksgiving is a time of the year where you celebrate what you are grateful for. It's where you celebrate your family the food you are given.

One thing that I am thankful for is my family. I am grateful for my family because they do everything for me whether it's helping with my homework or just watching a TV show with me.

Another thing that I am thankful for is food and water. I am grateful for this because without these two things I would not be alive. I have realized that it is a privilege to have this.

I'm also thankful to live in a house. This is because a house protects me in bad weather and the danger in the world.

Thanksgiving shows to never take anything for granted because not everyone has what you do.
