

Bylu Zambrano

Thankful Essay

What is it to be thankful? Being thankful is to be outspoken about every person that I have a lot of gratitude for. Being thankful also means to remind yourself to appreciate and give thanks to the small things in life.

I am thankful for family ,friends,food,and nature. This essay will be about me going into detail on why I'm so thankful for these four things.

I am thankful for my family because they love and support me. My family helps me when I need it, and spends time with me. Every time I am with my family I feel happy and joyful. My family is important to me because they're always there for me when I need them.

My friends are special to me because they play with me. My friends and I help each other and share secrets. Moments when a friend made me feel supported are the time I needed something, she offered a helping hand. I love my friends and I don't take them for granted.

I am thankful for my teacher because they make school work fun. I'm thankful for Girl Scouts because you can learn new skills. My teachers are very kind to me. In Girl Scouts my favorite part is selling as many cookies as possible. I learned that remembering all the things I'm thankful for makes my heart happy. I'm thankful for my family, friends, teachers, and Girl Scouts. What thankful means to me is to never take anything for granted. Having gratitude is to always be thankful. I'm thankful because that is the best way to live.