In the morning i wake up and look around i see my family. Every day I see new things that are shape and color and I see personality. If someone gives me something I'm going to be grateful and if someone said something nice I'm going to be grateful because in the world if you're not grateful you're not a good person and they're going to hate you.

I'm grateful to my mom because she brought me to this world and helped me when I needed it and took care of me when I was a kid. I'm grateful for my family because they help me when I need it and they are always there for me and always help me when I need it and they help my friend if they need help and if they are hungry. I'm grateful to my aunts because they help me and they help my lil bro. I'm grateful for my grandma because they always want the best for me and they help my mom and they help me when I need it. I'm grateful for my teachers because they help me learn new stuff that I don't know and grateful for the big sportunity that i got to be in the evergreen and the big opportunity that I have to know how to write and read. I'm grateful for the beautiful gold that he died because of the person and the love that he gave to us and I'm thankful for having hands and having eyes and feet and fingers and senses that they help me to smell,taste,touch,hear. I'm grateful for the plants,trees because they give us oxygen so that we don't die and they help us in a lot of things. I'm grateful for everyone. I don't care about the color and bad persons and about the new days that they give us every day.

I got a challenge with my mom and then we was thinking and when we though how to solve it and then my mom said to me to concentrate and then i was thinking so hard and she was thinking to and we both got the answer and then we got it right and then she said that i did grate and she was thankful for me because i help her and i said no problem mom when you need help just call me and i will come help you and thats it. The next day my aunt got a problem with my lil bro and i just a went to help her and we solve it and my lil bro she just laugh at us because he just wanted milk and like he does not talk he could tell us and me and my aunt was so stressful

Thats problem help me grow because i learn and help people and i feel proved of me and that can help me grow because helping help you grow that what i think if you dont thing the same there something wrong with you because helping help you grow and that is why im growing and i like helping people and you can help people to and i like to help people in the school because then we can make friend and the friend when you don't know something they can help you my perspective is that help is so good thing that can you do and help you grow.

I learned that if you are grateful you are a good person and can change your life and can change lives and you can change another person to make her understand the thing that the teacher is doing or the problem they have in the real world and how to read and and write.
