

Emma sorto diaz

November, 17, 2025 (evergreen charter school)

English 7th

A specific memory from this year that brings me joy or comfort is my grandpa's 70th birthday. This is because this memory is where we get around and celebrate my grandpa who started this family and worked on it. Funny moments happened in it like one time my cosine say "Oh no I hope I don't fall" and he did and the bouncy castle fall but it was funny, and we did dancing and a spanish band came and my aunt, dad, and uncle did it for my grandpa and he dance with my grandma and then his grandkids did (including me) and he loves when his grandkids have a good time. I loved that my grandpa loved his birthday by seeing people happy, dancing with his wife, and seeing his grown up kids dancing and being happy with him. I recorded some videos and most were in the bouncy castle and I took pitchers with my grandpa and others and I'm telling you it's good, it might not be perfect but it's great in my heart. My mom and dad work hard to give my grandpa the best birthday and they nailed (we also helped too). I am grateful that everyone had a great time, funny moments, and most importantly, family together. I was happy to see Giovanni (my brother) having a good time with our cosines and the kids that we met over there liking the party. Everybody loves that our grandpa had better than ever and we should respect him by letting my mom move in at their house (it happened long ago), letting his grandkids (me, Sophia, and Giovanni) have the best life at his house, and supporting my aunt. This memory reminds me that family is all we need and have, the laugh and smiles shine in the room, dancing can be amazing and supported, and family is everything and when we get together, we share smiles and love.