

Gratitude Essay

What gratitude means to me is family because without them I wouldn't be this confident and I can always trust them. A specific memory from last year that brings me joy or comfort is when I went to El Salvador with my sibling. I was a little sad my mom couldn't go but I did have a lot of fun. I went to Salvador to see my grandma, Aunt , and two cousins. I felt very welcomed and thrilled because they would ask me if I wanted anything and my cousin would keep asking me to hang out or play so it made me feel welcomed . I also visited another part of Salvador to see my aunt and her family. While we were there I went to the water park, when I landed in Salvador I saw a lot of palm trees. It felt very tropical and it was blazing hot.

Another memorable experience is when I went to Florida with my family, we went to disney world and i felt the most happiness ive ever felt, i loved how me and my family were together to be a such a magical place, i even overcome my fears of rollercoasters, The roller coasters i went on were: The Seven Dwarf Mine Train and the Expedition Everest. I was full of joy and I was over the moon.

Another memorable memory I've had was last year I went to my best friend's birthday party. I felt comfortable and welcomed how they wanted to start conversations. I was so grateful and relieved that they accepted me. I was happy to be there for her.

This is why I am grateful for my family and these wonderful memories, and I will cherish them forever, And i hope to make even more memories with them.
