Why I Am Thankful...

Have you ever wondered what thankful means ? Well thankful means you are grateful you admire something. I am thankful for my family, friends, school, sports and our military.

My family is always here for me. My friends are not just my friends there, my world . The things my family do for me is make sure I have something to eat every day, make sure I have a bed to sleep in and make sure I'm entertained and it makes me feel safe and cozy. I love my family and my family loves me!

Friends are special to me because My friends are not just friends there my world just like this quote says "there are friends ,there is family ,and then there are friends that become family like once i was lonely and my friend asked me are you ok and i wasn't so she played with me that made me really happy! You always need one friend in life!

I'm so thankful for school and sports, because school is where you learn and be smart and use your brain! And also school is where you make friends ,and my teachers im thankful for them teachers take time out of their life to grade your test read your hw! I'm also thankful for sports ,sports are healthy and it makes you not bored and help you get MUSLES! Your always gonna need school

This are all the things im thankful for and always will be people that serve our country - For Soldiers and veterans that fought for our country. A Soldier is not just strong and brave, but they push through even though its hard veterans to a quote that shows that "Without heroes, we are all plain people, and don't know how far we can go!

I'm also thankful for the people that don't like me because not everyone is going to like you but it pushes you and shows you that you are strong and brave and people push you because they don't think how others feel and they are hurt inside so you should still treat people with kindness cause you never know what somebody is going through!
