

Mateo Hernandez

11-11-25

Class: 6L8

Ms210q

Things I'm grateful for.

I think that many people take stuff for granted, even the tiniest stuff, which is why I am here to talk about things I am thankful for. Let's start off with tiny stuff that can make the biggest difference on anyone. I am thankful for my parents, I am thankful to be loved by my family. I am thankful for my sister Julia, without her most of the things I have accomplished in the 10 years of my existence. I am thankful for all the teachers that helped me accomplish and claim the role as salutatorian at my graduation. I am really just thankful for everything in my life.

Some more stuff I am thankful for is my cat, she keeps me really calm throughout the day and coming home to her purring at me makes my day always. I am thankful for the food I get to eat, I am thankful for the toys my parents provide for me. For some background information, my parents are hispanic, my mom doesn't speak much english, she speaks more spanish than english. Back then, they lived in an apartment where they had my sister Juila, then they went to the next apartment where they had my brother gael, and not all of us were born in the actual house, this is just to tell where our first years of existence were. I was born in the first house my parents bought together with my uncle. After that my parents were fortunate enough to buy their own. home and moved there, nothing much happened until we bought our current house. Even if my parents are hispanic and were somewhat struggling during some difficult times, they still provided the necessary stuff needed to live a good life which I am overall so grateful for.

Apart from some of the most important people in my life that I am grateful for, I'd like to mention that I'm also grateful for other things provided for me. I am grateful for my bed, I am grateful for my desk that I can use to do my work. I am grateful for my Nintendo Switch that my parents got me. I am grateful for the little buildable robots that I can rebuild over and over again. I am grateful for my phone and my loaner laptop that the school provided for me. Lastly, I am thankful for all my friends who cared for me even when I was down.

Something that I am also grateful for that may be overlooked are the holidays and the opportunity to celebrate the holidays with my family. I am thankful for Christmas because I get a lot of presents and it's just a really joyful time of the year. I am thankful for thanksgiving because everyone throughout the world gets together with their families and have a nice dinner. I am thankful for "Dia De Los Muertos" because it's a time where many of our family members who have passed cross the spiritual bridge and their spirits come to visit us. I am thankful for Easter because it's the day when Jesus resurrected from the dead. One final holiday I am grateful for is independence day because that is the day when we gained freedom from the British, letting every American have freedom.

In conclusion, this essay is meant to demonstrate the many things there are in the world to be grateful for. Just because you may have better clothes or better toys doesn't mean you're better. That person you may be picking on may have their own struggles to deal with. This essay isn't just about stuff I'm grateful for, it's meant to teach about the true meaning of gratitude.

Always remember to be grateful for the things you have because someone out there in the world is begging for what you have.