

I'm thankful for my family because they always care for me and become happy when I come home from school. They also tell me to try my best when I have a test. I'm also thankful for having an amazing life. Living in this world and being alive is what I'm thankful for. Life may seem hard, but just live because if you hate it more than life, it's going to be more boring. I'm also thankful for going to the school I go to because school is fun. When I was little, I did not like school but the more I came to school, it changed my mind about school. I mean, sure, I am in this school, but sometimes I'm thankful for the other school, and I mostly love both schools. There are many things that I'm thankful for, but those are the things that I'm thankful for and what I love.
