I am thankful for chess because I get to learn different strategies and develop my intelligence. Chess is my favorite game. When I play chess, I feel all the stress go away. It relaxes me and I feel I can do anything. Chess increases my confidence. Chess helps me with problem-solving and learning about the different pieces' functions. Chess also helps me develop my social skills because I get to play with friends, family members, and meet new people. Chess is my passion, and I like the challenge. Chess keeps me focused and improves my concentration. Playing chess is a competition, but it is not about whether I win or lose; it's about the enjoyment and challenge of the game. Chess allows me to fondly remember my grandpa, who recently passed, because it was the game that we played together. I will continue to play chess, learn different strategies, and just enjoy the game. Whether I am in a checkmate on the chessboard or in life, I will always find a solution that helps me overcome my obstacles.
