Thanksgiving is an important holiday where you get to show love and gratitude towards things you're thankful for like family, friend's, parents, food and more . Thanksgiving is important because this holiday you get to show love towards things God gave you and the good things you have and some people might not have. Thanksgiving is a holiday to cherish and to show kindness, because some things you may have, others may not have, some things that some of us think is normal for everyone to have might not always be true because some people might not have those things. It is really important to cherish all the things we have because not everyone might have those things even if they are something small yet they still have value in our life. Every day goes by with our normal days either we are busy with school, work or other things and we don't have enough time to show love and gratitude for the things that are valuable to us even if they are something small and simple yet you still have those things. Some people dont have family, some people dont have friends, some people dont have food, some people dont have clothes, some people cannot go to school, some people may not have enough money to afford good things. Some people don't have a roof adobe their head and some don't have a warm comfortable place to lay on. Usually most people have all those things yet they don't make the time to cherish and show gratitude towards the small things that may be normal to have however you ever know who does not have the good things you have. So therefore thanksgiving is a very important holiday for everyone and it is extremely important for us to be thankful for everything we have.

Some things that I am thankful for

I am thankful for having a roof above my head, I am thankful for my family, my friends, and my food. I am thankful for the clothes I have and the school I go to, I am thankful for my education. I am thankful for my Best friends and I am thankful for my parents. I am thankful for money. I am thankful for my dad and mom. I am thankful for water and the fruits I eat as well.

Why I Am GrateFul for the things I have

Some things that I am thankful for are my house, my friends, my family, my school, my parents, my bed, my food, my clothes, my health, my amazing teachers, my grandma. I am thankful for a house because some people don't have houses and do not have a roof to live under. Some people may not have a roof to live under and to stay warm during cold winters and cool during hot summer. Some kids have to live in streets around the world. Also that can affect them in winter summer rain. All those things can be terrible and we should be thankful for having a place to live in no matter if it is nice or small or big or just something we might not like. I am thankful for food because some people have to starve for days and just have a tiny amount of food. Some people can not afford good warm delicious food that most people usually get everyday. And some kids cannot have the food they want even if it is something small and normal for most people, to get and those kids have to starve day by day. Sometimes even getting a good drink even water can be hard and they can have thirst. Some kids and people can starve to death from not being able to afford food to fill their stomach . I am thankful for my parents because some kids do not have parents and my parents are amazing. They raised me all my life, they have worked hard to raise me to be a good kid. I am thankful for my family because some people don't have families. I am thankful for my friends/best friends because some people don't have best friends or friends and I am happy and grateful to have awesome wonderful friends. Each of my friends are special because they have their own way of being special. Each of my friends do different special things for me and I'm very thankful for them. I am grateful for my education because some kids do not get to have education and don't get to come to school and education is the number one key to success. I am grateful for my clothes because some people don't have clothes and some people only have one or two things to wear. I am thankful for money because I can afford the nice things that I want and the things that I need to survive. Some people do not have enough money to afford the nice good things and also to afford things to survive.

Conclusion

Therefore I am thankful for everything I have because it's normal for some people to think everyone has what they have even if it is simple small things that are casual things that seems like everyone might have it. However not everyone has everything and not everyone has what you might have and thanksgiving is important for people to show gratitude towards those things you have. And also it is important to show love and care and to hangout with family and friends during thanksgiving because everything in our life is special no matter if it is small or big. Thanksgiving is a time to hang out with everybody and Thanksgiving is a time to show care and gratitude towards everything and it is important for people to also be kind to others and to help others during Thanksgiving.
