I think we can make an invention to help with recycling by making a robot that is programmed to pick up any trash that we leave on the ground like a bag. Also, it will be able to do other things to help clean our planet. Such as, it will be able to get a scoop that can pick up the snow and ice in the winter on streets and sidewalks. The robot will be able to do everything that can help our planet and our human civilization as one. And also it can help people like in restaurants to help waiters. Through the use of robots, we can be more efficient and help reduce waste.
